Little Hope Is Held For Quick
Coal ContractLewis And Operators
To Meet Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators get together Tuesday for the first time in seven months, but little hope existed today in the industry, the union or the government that a quick contract would be negotiated.

If no agreement is reached by June 30, when the government's power to operate the seized bituminous pits expires, a new soft coal strike is likely.

Lewis' recent utterances, his "safety" work stoppage and six-day memorial shutdown for the 111 victims of the Centerville, Ill., mine disaster, point to three major demands which the union leader seems certain to present:

Same Pay, Shorter Hours

1. The same pay for an eight-hour day as the miners now get for nine hours underground—$11.85. This would be equivalent to a wage increase of $1.85 a day or 23 cents an hour.

2. An increase from five to 10 cents a ton in the royalty for the miners' welfare and retirement fund. Already there is more than $20,000,000 in this fund, collected since the end of last spring's strike.

3. Adoption by the industry of the federal mine safety code provided by the government which ended last spring's strike. On this point, Lewis' hand may have been strengthened by the Centerville disaster. Last spring the operators would not agree to such a code, saying its cost would be prohibitive.

Government officials who will play host for the Tuesday session between bargaining representatives of the United Mine Workers and the divided bituminous coal operators found little ground for optimism.

They believe Lewis may be able to work out a contract with representatives of the Northern Appalachian, Midwest and steel companies' "captive" mines, but see little chance of an agreement with the southern coal producers before the June 30 deadline.

Strike Paralyzed Industry

Privately, some operators express the opinion that the industry might have been better off to have come to terms with Lewis last spring instead of permitting the government to seize and run the mines for a year.

In the government settlement last May 29, reached by Lewis and Secretary of the Interior Krug, the miners won a 59-day strike which brought slow paralysis to industry.

Adm. Ben Moreell, Civil Mines Administrator until last October 1, called Lewis and the operators into a bargaining session September 11 in a futile effort to get them to agree on terms of the Krug-Lewis contract.

Third Of U. S. Residents
Lose One Hour Of Sleep

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—A third of the nation's residents lost an hour of sleep last night when daylight saving time went into effect in all or parts of 16 states, most of them in the Northeast.

Clocks were moved ahead at 2 a. m. today in the areas observing the shift. They will be moved back September 28.

The change affected all or most communities in New York, Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Delaware, Vermont and Pennsylvania and some sections of Maryland, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Tennessee and Michigan.

Newburyport Plan For Price Cuts
Is Receiving Scattered Support

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—The Newburyport plan of 10 per cent across-the-board retail price cuts is receiving widely scattered support, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Meanwhile, President Truman's pleas for price-cutting have received some industrial support, but the General Electric Company, the nation's largest manufacturer of electrical appliances and equipment, announced it would increase prices an average of seven per cent, following a wage increase.

In Newburyport, Mass., where the anti-inflation experiment originated, retail merchants reported yesterday's sales were 40 per cent above a normal Saturday, and attributed it to shoppers flocking in from surrounding communities.

The 10 per cent cuts originally were scheduled to run for 10 days in that city, but sponsors of the idea are considering indefinite continuance.

Izvestia Denies
Big Four Moscow
Meeting Failure"Lot Of Work" Done,
Red Paper Declares

MOSCOW, April 27 (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia today rapped those who call the Moscow conference a failure. It said the four-power Foreign Ministers had accomplished "a lot of work" toward writing the German and Austrian peace treaties.

In the first comment by a Russian newspaper on the meeting's results, Izvestia declared in a page one editorial that the problems faced by the ministers were so intricate it would have been impossible to solve them in a single conference.

"Constructive" Tone

Although the editorial criticized the United States and Britain for what it called "imperialistic" tactics in trying to impose their desires on the conferees, observers in the British, American and French embassies said its tone was "constructive" and that it reflected a Soviet desire to continue international deliberations on world problems.

"Those who are now clamoring about the 'failure' of the Moscow conference had placed in it some particular hidden hopes which have nothing in common with the real tasks of settling European problems in a spirit of international co-operation," Izvestia said.

"It is the case, however, these people ought to speak of a collapse of their own hopes and not of the 'failure' of the Moscow session."

The phrase "hidden hopes," but this could be interpreted as a reference to the belief held by many Russians that the United States had adopted a "get tough" policy in the expectation of wringing concessions out of the Soviet Union.

Russian Position Stated

Izvestia said that the Soviet Union insisted upon adherence to the decisions on Germany taken in the Potsdam and Crimean conferences, against attempts by Britain and the United States to deviate from them.

"To this there were also added attempts by the said delegations to

Washington Plans Big

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—The Capital today completed plans to give a good neighbor, President Aleman, of Mexico, one of its greatest receptions when he arrives Tuesday for an official visit.

Moved by the wholehearted acclaim given President Truman in Mexico last month, Washington will launch Aleman's two-week United States trip with a long parade for which some 200,000 persons are expected to turn out.

Rent Control
In Many Areas
Will End May 1Maryland Eastern
Shore Zone "Freed"

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—The government tonight abolished rent controls in 28 areas and portions of 11 others in 22 states, effective May 1.

The decontrol, announced by the OPA branch of the Office of Temporary Controls, applies to all living accommodations in the affected areas, including homes, apartments, hotels, tourist camps and rooming houses.

OPA officials said it is the largest decontrol action since rent ceilings were instituted in June, 1942. They added that the order continues a policy, started nearly a year ago, of decontrolling areas or portions when it is shown that the need for controls no longer exists.

No Further Decontrol Planned

Max McCullough, OPA commissioner, told a reporter OPA's rent division plans no further decontrol actions before it is shifted on May 4 to the Office of the Housing Expediter.

"This new order covers all areas I think should be decontrolled before June 30," McCullough said. OTC and its three sub-groups, including OPA, were ordered liquidated by June 1 in an executive order issued last Thursday by President Truman. His order directed that rent controls be shifted to Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon.

Although OPA itself expects to take no further decontrol actions, there is nothing that would preclude Creedon's ordering additional areas or portions freed from controls should he find such action warranted.

620 Areas To Be Controlled

With the ending of controls in 28 areas, a total of 620 areas or portions will remain under recent legislation. The action, McCullough said, will mean the closing of "nearly 12" local rent offices. He said the exact number had not been determined. Most of the offices affected, he added, "have only two or three employees each."

The rent areas decontrolled include:

Maryland—Eastern Shore area of Maryland and Virginia, including Dorchester, Wilcox and Worcester Counties, Maryland.

West Virginia—Portion of Bluefield area consisting of Boone, Summers and Fayette Counties.

Assembly To Take Up
Case At 10 A. M. (EST)

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—Great Britain is ready to accept any decision the United Nations makes on the Palestine question but will insist that the world organization enforce all of its own recommendations, a British spokesman said tonight.

At the same time, he made it clear that Britain has no intention of implementing any decision—"just or unjust"—alone.

For example, the spokesman pointed out that in event the United Nations decided that Palestine should be partitioned, "Britain can not be expected to divide the Holy Land and enforce the decision."

"It is up to the United Nations to implement its own decisions," he declared.

The spokesman added, however, that Britain would participate, "naturally," with other powers in carrying out the decision but would not assume sole responsibility.

Arabs Want Independent Palestine

For example, he said, if troops should be needed to supervise a decision taken on the Holy Land, "then they should be Russian, American and French as well as British, but not British alone."

This latest word on the British position came on the eve of the United Nations' General Assembly's extraordinary session.

It came almost simultaneously with a report that the Arab League would stand firm on its demands that Palestine be declared independent at this special session.

The Arab announcement followed a caucus of the five Arab states in the United Nations.

There was a chance that Sir Alexander Cadogan, chief British delegate, would state his government's position firmly on the floor of the Assembly soon, although some quarters familiar with London policy believe he might wait until the United Nations got into the substance of the whole question later.

The Palestine case, cutting boldly across racial, religious and nationalist lines and forming the most controversial issue ever to face the United Nations formally goes before the Assembly at Flushing Meadows at 10 a. m. (EST) tomorrow. Fernand Van Langenhove of Belgium, temporary president, will rap the gavel.

Arabs May Lead Debate

The Arab League, demanding that Palestine be declared an independent state immediately, appeared destined to lead the debate in a session which promised to extend beyond the original two-week schedule and cost almost a million dollars.

Prince Faisal Al Saud, foreign Minister of Saudi Arabia, was a last-minute arrival and summoned delegates from the other four Arab member states to his hotel suite to lay down final strategy.

Britain asked for the special session with the stipulation that the 55 delegates discuss only the formation of an inquiry commission to prepare the problem for the regular September meeting. Britain and the United States are firmly resisting the Arab move to open up the whole question now.

Slowdown In Hiring
Is Predicted By USES

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—Finding that the forces underlying business expansion "have lost their upward drive," the United States Employment Service tonight predicted a slowdown in hiring.

The USES national labor market summary reported that "some industries are entering a new quarter with doubts concerning their economic future."

Nevertheless Director Robert C. Goodwin, of USES, reported that total employment this spring will rise toward the 58,000,000 peak of last July. A climb of 3,000,000 persons in seasonal farm work and gains in other industries will bring this about, he said.

President, Key
Congressmen
Hear MarshallGet Preview Of His Report To Nation

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—Key congressmen, along with President Truman, got a two-hour preview tonight of what Secretary of State Marshall will tell the nation tomorrow night about the stale-mated Moscow Conference of Foreign Ministers.

The Capitol Hill delegation, however, emerged tight-lipped from the White House session with Mr. Truman and the Secretary.

Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and spokesman for the group, declined flatly to answer questions as to whether further measures to curb Communism were proposed.

"We had a preview of the report Secretary Marshall will make to the nation tomorrow," he said.

"Time will have to tell," was his answer when a reporter asked if he is optimistic.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of his party's Senate Policy Committee, refused to talk.

"I can't say anything," he told reporters. "It was very interesting."

Vandenberg, under questioning, said that it was "a very good report."

That was his answer to queries on whether the group got a full account from Marshall.

He repeated that Marshall's report was simply a preview and told the newsmen that beyond that, "I haven't a thing to say."

Pressed by the reporters, he did say that Gen. Marshall "was very free in answering questions."

Truman Present Throughout

As to how the President figured in the conference, Vandenberg said Mr. Truman was present throughout.

He wouldn't answer further questions as to the President's part in the unusual night meeting, the second after-dinner White House session with bi-partisan congressional leaders.

Sen. Barkley (D-Ky.), the Democratic Senate Leader, said Marshall's report was confined to a picture of what occurred at the Moscow meeting.

Marshall, pressed by reporters as to whether economic and financial aid to other countries along the line of the $400,000,000 Senate-passed bill for Greece and Turkey was suggested at tonight's meeting, asserted:

"I just reported on what happened."

Under questioning as to whether there were any new recommendations, he simply said, "I made a good many observations."

TURNING IN FALSE FIRE
ALARM SUMMONS HELP
BUT $50 FINE FOLLOWS

NEW YORK, April 27 (AP)—The attractive wife of a Seattle businessman was fined $50 and orally reprimanded today for turning in a fire alarm summoning aid and resulting in the capture of two five men who she said were beating and robbing her husband.

The wife, Mrs. Mearl Jensen, 39, who said she was a grandmother and the mother of three grown children, told police she and her husband had been sightseeing in Chinatown early today and were on the way back to their hotel when he was set upon by five men. She said in court that she turned in the fire alarm to summon aid because "in my town one would do that sort of thing."

At a hearing before Magistrate Joseph M. Levine after Mrs. Jensen pleaded guilty to a charge of turning in a false alarm, the magistrate asked Mrs. Jensen: "Do you know it costs the city quite a bit of money to go out on call?"

He added that there might "have been a loss of life because you called the fire department."

"But," pleaded Mrs. Jensen, "my husband was being robbed and beaten. They might have beaten him to death."

VATICAN CITY, April 27 (AP)—A convicted murderer, repentant and his prison sentence ended, attended the beatification today of his victim, 11-year-old Maria Goretti.

Semi-official Vatican sources, in reporting this, said Alessandro Serenelli, now 63, apparently was not recognized by anyone in the crowd of 25,000 who attended the ceremony at St. Peter's Basilica.

Maria Goretti was stabbed by Serenelli in 1902 after she had successfully resisted his attempts to attack her. He served 27 years. While in prison he expressed repentance and said the little girl he had killed had appeared to him several times in his dreams.

Wallace Asserts
U. S. Is "On Road
To Imperialism"

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—Henry Wallace, back from a European speaking tour, asserted today that American foreign policy is "on the road to ruthless imperialism," adding, however, "but it's not that yet."

Refreshed after a night's rest in New York, the former vice president arrived at National Airport early tonight.

Wallace told newsmen he will spend the month of May on a nationwide speaking tour, outlining anew the opposition he voiced in Europe to the administration's program to bolster Greece and Turkey against communism.

His declaration that this nation was "on the road to ruthless imperialism—but it's not that yet"—came in response to a question whether he still held to his view of the situation expressed in England.

He declined to discuss the results of the Moscow Conference of Foreign Ministers, explaining he will hold a news conference tomorrow afternoon. Earlier in New York, he said he felt sure "something has been accomplished."

In response to a query, he said there is "nothing but love in my heart" for members of Congress. Wallace was subjected to a barrage of criticism in Congress after his attacks on American foreign policy abroad.

Wallace emphasized that he had said nothing abroad that he has not said here.

The queen, Jean Cartwright Lane, pretty, 19-year-old daughter of Gov. and Mrs. William Preston Lane, of Maryland, arrived by motor with her royal party from the Government House in Annapolis this afternoon and with an escort of Maryland and Virginia State Police.

Northwestern
Bell Proposes
$2.50 Pay HikeBeirne Expects Wage
Offer From A. T. & T.

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—Prospects for settling the 21-day old telephone strike grew brighter tonight.

Optimism stemmed from these developments:

Gov. Luther W. Youngdahl, of Minnesota, said that the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company had offered its striking workers in five midwestern states a $2.50-a-week "across-the-board" increase in wages. The Northwest Federation of Telephone Workers will give its answer tomorrow at 2 p. m. Central Standard time.

Edgar L. Warren, director of the Federal Conciliation Service, said discussions here had reached the point of "possibility of a wage increase."

Joseph A. Beirne, president of the striking National Federation of Telephone Workers, declared that "a major break" might come at any time. After being advised of the Northwestern developments, he said "it's up to the people out there" to decide if the company offer is satisfactory.

Although the federation originally had asked for a $12 a week increase for some 340,000 members, it subsequently cut that demand in half.

Beirne Talks To Strikers

Youngdahl said at St. Paul, Minn., that the cash offer made for telephone workers in Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska should be a strong factor in bringing about a settlement of the nationwide strike.

Beirne's forecast that the end of the strike may be in sight came at a mass meeting of Washington strikers.

Beirne said his audience might expect a "major break in the not too distant future," adding that he expects it to come in a wage offer from the long distance department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

That, the strike chief said, "probably will set a pattern" for the industry in general.

Beirne admonished the strikers, however, to keep the west A. T. & T. company will gauge their strength by the effectiveness of the strike at that time.

"Once we get together on money the other issues should be easy," Beirne said. "The end may be in sight."

He characterized as "a stab in the back" the action of Maryland telephone workers in withdrawing from the NFW and settling with the Chesapeake and Potomac (Bell) Telephone Company.

Southwestern Talks Break Up

Shortly after Beirne spoke at the mass meeting, a negotiating session between management and workers of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, which A. T. & T. operating subsidiary, broke up without a wage offer.

W. Ellison Chalmers, of the conciliation service staff, said that the conferees "discussed wages and other matters" though there was "no wage offer out of the company."

The lack of a direct offer in that meeting, however, was considered by officials as not significant. Company officials said at the time that they agreed to resume talks here that they did so with the distinct understanding that they would not make a pay offer. Like other Bell System units that company has been arguing for local arbitration on wages.

One Southwestern talks were recessed to an indefinite time tomorrow.

At that time talks with the A. T. & T. long lines division, and with Western Electric, the company's manufacturing subsidiary, were still going on.

Warren's statement was issued to reporters after a two-hour recess in the strategic long lines meeting.

Answer To Future Of Hope Diamond
May Be Found In Mrs. McLean's Will

WASHINGTON, April 27 (AP)—What is to become of the fabulous Hope diamond with its reputed curse was a question that engrossed Capital society today with the death of its fabulous owner, Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean.

A reading of her will, probably soon after the private funeral service Tuesday, will give the answer. And if Mrs. McLean meant what she told friends before her death of pneumonia last night, the superb but jinxed gem of 44 1/2 carats will go to none of her family.

Mrs. McLean, born in the two-room log cabin of a miner who "struck it rich" and then reared her like a princess, loved to wear the diamond, for which she is said to have refused offers up to $2,000,000. It was exquisitely set, surrounded by diamonds whose brilliant white lights accentuated the weird blueness of the main stone. It hung from a diamond and platinum chain around her neck.

She had her portrait painted wearing it. Her home was closely guarded that she might keep it with her. She wore it with evening gowns and with daytime frocks. She realized that it fascinated friends and strangers. She delighted to show it to her guests. That it might be better seen, she would lift it in her hand as it hung about her neck. With an amused look in her eyes behind the amber glasses she wore indoors, even in the evenings, in recent years, she watched their expressions as she showed them the strange stone.

But the story is that she never would permit it to be touched by her children.

While declaring that she would not leave the diamond to them, Mrs. McLean did not say precisely what her intentions were.

The indications are that it will go to her estate—both in view of her own attitude toward it and the more prosaic matter of taxes—to be sold to some new owner willing to brave the superstition of its ill luck.

Most Of County Now Operating On Fast Time

Cumberlanders and most residents of Allegany County awoke yesterday morning to find they had lost an hour of sleep as Daylight Saving Time became effective, but ministers and industrial heads reported the fast time had caused no confusion.

At the last minute the Federated Committees of Shop Crafts at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's Cumberland shops voted to adopt fast time and clocks were turned up at 1 a. m. an official said.

The committees adopted the fast time to avoid confusion, since most of the county will be operating on daylight time, the official explained, but he added that train schedules will continue to operate on standard time.

Some members of local churches reported they were amused to see a few members of their congregation come "tripping" into church almost an hour late, but ministers denied that the fast time had interfered with services and replied "there are always a few who come to church late."

Most of the large towns in Allegany County will operate on fast time, but many of the rural regions have indicated that they will continue on standard time. However, they will have to arrange to arrive in the city an hour earlier if they plan to shop just before closing time in the shopping district.

While the Allegany County Board of Commissioners declared they did not have authority to adopt the plan for the county, most of the larger communities accepted the fast time and along with Cumberland set their clocks up late Saturday night or yesterday morning, after the municipal heads indicated they would go along with the Celanese plant and other major industries to avoid confusion for the workers.

State Trooper A. M. Spioch said he arrested the pair Saturday morning on a Westernport street after they admitted wrecking the vehicle between Barton and Franklin. Their arrest followed the recovery of the abandoned car, police explained.

Russell Robertson, 23, Lonaconing, was fined $127.90 and John W. Yantz, 21, Frostburg, forfeited the same amount Saturday when they failed to appear in Frostburg Trial Magistrates Court on charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

FAMILY MESSAGE NUMBER 17

Why is MARRIAGE like a CANOE?

Because to manage either takes proper balance and teamwork

by Dr. Paul Popenoe

Director, American Institute of Family Relations, Los Angeles, California

Dr. Paul Popenoe

"If you want to stay happily married and keep out of the divorce courts, you must learn right from the start to work as partners, with mutual love and respect.

"From a study of several thousand marriages all over the United States we have found that the best chance of success lies in the 50-50 marriage, where both partners share equally in the decisions and responsibilities.

"When the wife 'rules the roost,' 47% of the marriages are happy. When the husband is boss, 61% are happy. But in 50-50 marriages 87% are happy.

"The key to success in a 50-50 marriage lies in dividing up the responsibility and agreeing upon a goal. First decide what kind of life you want and can afford, and then decide what part each of you is to have in trying to achieve it.

"In working out your plan, you will find the following four points important:

"1. Definitely assign as many responsibilities as you can. It doesn't particularly matter how much each of you does, so long as both agree that under the circumstances it is fair.

"2. Leave as little as possible for joint handling and discussion—not more than one-tenth of the family decisions, if possible.

"3. Once a responsibility has been assigned, don't interfere.

"4. In discussions and decisions, always ask yourselves, 'Is this for the good of our marriage, or am I really just trying to get my own way and make myself feel important?'

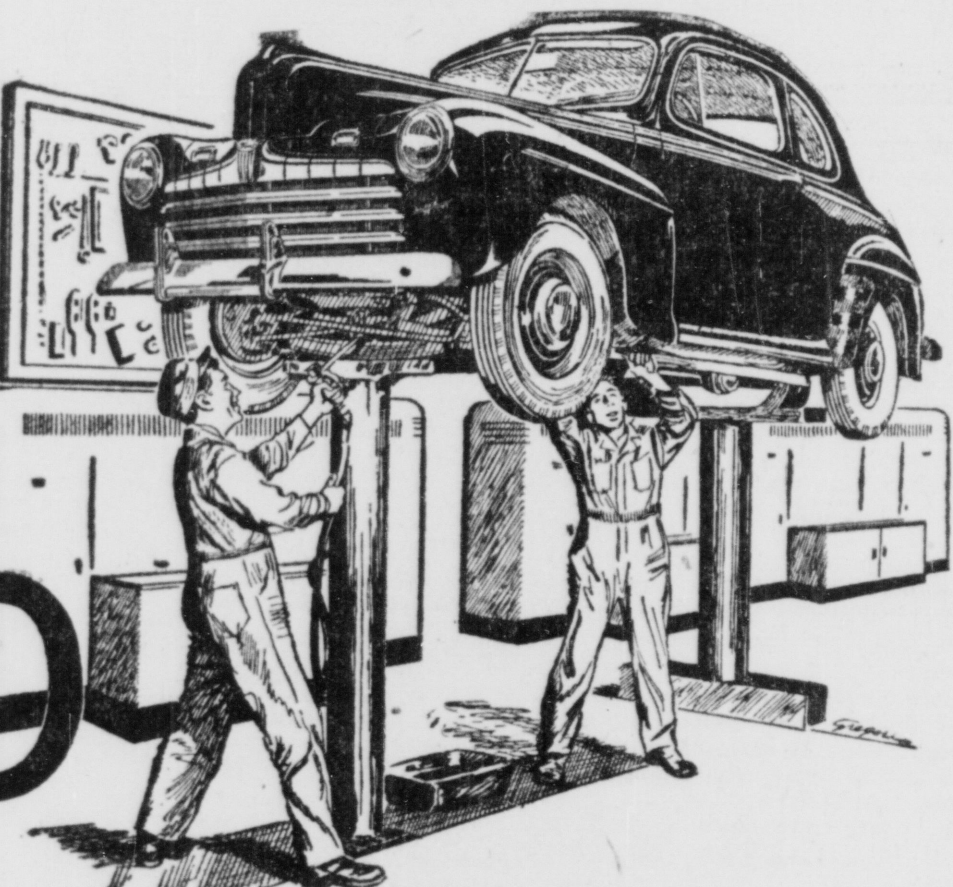

"A good deal of all this will have to do with money—who is going to pay for what? This means you will have to figure out in advance what your income will allow you to spend on each type of need—rent, food, insurance, clothing, and so forth—and which of you is going to do the actual spending for each type.

"One last word. No matter how you divide up the managing of the family money, each of you should have some personal money to spend without having to account for it to anyone.

"If you follow these rules, use common sense, cultivate a sense of humor, and really love each other, you should be happy together all your lives."

Watch for the next message in this newspaper, about two weeks from now.

HOW TO PLAN FOR FAMILY HAPPINESS

Regardless of the size of income, any family can have more happiness and fewer worries by planning the use of the family money:

First: provide in advance for payments coming due, such as rent, taxes, mortgage charges, life insurance and other insurance. The easiest way is to bank small amounts each payday that will add up to the totals when due.

Second: set aside something extra each payday in the savings account until you build up an emergency fund.

Then you know what is left to spend on everyday family needs such as food, clothing, recreation—and what you can afford to set aside for such future family plans as a new home, education, travel.

Because the life insurance companies and their agents have long helped people to plan for family security and happiness, they are conducting this program of information as a public service to the 73,000,000 owners of life insurance and to every American family.

State Trooper A. M. Spioch said he arrested the pair Saturday morning on a Westernport street after they admitted wrecking the vehicle between Barton and Franklin. Their arrest followed the recovery of the abandoned car, police explained.

Russell Robertson, 23, Lonaconing, was fined $127.50 and John W. Yantz, 21, Frostburg, forfeited the same amount Saturday when they failed to appear in Frostburg Trial Magistrate Court on charges of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Child Is Treated After Auto Accident

A 3-year-old Spruce Street child, Judith Anne Mulligan, was treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday afternoon for abrasions of the back and left hand, multiple bruises and an abrasion behind the right ear suffered when she was struck by an automobile at 3:25 p. m. on Paca Street.

Sgt. John Newhouse, City Police Department, identified the driver of the car as Alfred Jacobi, 202 Paca Street, but said the child darted in front of the car as it turned from Spruce Street on to Paca Street. Jacobi, police said, took the child to the hospital, where she was treated and discharged. Jacobi told police that he stopped the car as he heard the child but she continued to run and bumped against the front of the car. No charges were preferred.

FAMILY MESSAGE NUMBER 17

Why is MARRIAGE like a CANOE?

Because to manage either takes proper balance and teamwork

by Dr. Paul Popenoe

Director, American Institute of Family Relations, Los Angeles, California

Dr. Paul Popenoe

"If you want to stay happily married and keep out of the divorce courts, you must learn right from the start to work as partners, with mutual love and respect.

"From a study of several thousand marriages all over the United States we have found that the best chance of success lies in the 50-50 marriage, where both partners share equally in the decisions and responsibilities.

"When the wife 'rules the roost,' 47% of the marriages are happy. When the husband is boss, 61% are happy. But in 50-50 marriages 87% are happy.

"The key to success in a 50-50 marriage lies in dividing up the responsibility and agreeing upon a goal. First decide what kind of life you want and can afford, and then decide what part each of you is to have in trying to achieve it.

"In working out your plan, you will find the following four points important:

"1. Definitely assign as many responsibilities as you can. It doesn't particularly matter how much each of you does, so long as both agree that under the circumstances it is fair.

"2. Leave as little as possible for joint handling and discussion—not more than one-tenth of the family decisions, if possible.

"3. Once a responsibility has been assigned, don't interfere.

"4. In discussions and decisions, always ask yourselves, 'Is this for the good of our marriage, or am I really just trying to get my own way and make myself feel important?'

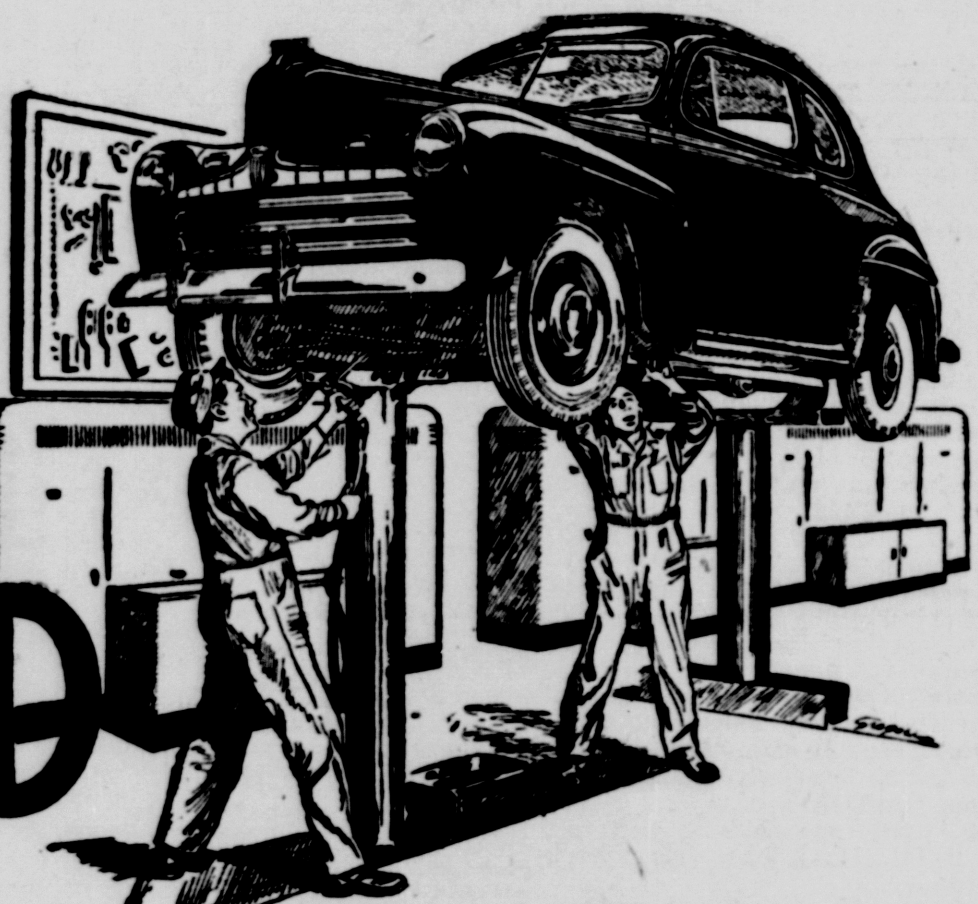

"A good deal of all this will have to do with money—who is going to pay for what? This means you will have to figure out in advance what your income will allow you to spend on each type of need—rent, food, insurance, clothing, and so forth—and which of you is going to do the actual spending for each type.

"One last word. No matter how you divide up the managing of the family money, each of you should have some personal money to spend without having to account for it to anyone.

"If you follow these rules, use common sense, cultivate a sense of humor, and really love each other, you should be happy together all your lives."

Watch for the next message in this newspaper, about two weeks from now.

HOW TO PLAN FOR FAMILY HAPPINESS

Regardless of the size of income, any family can have more happiness and fewer worries by planning the use of the family money:

First: provide in advance for payments coming due, such as rent, taxes, mortgage charges, life insurance and other insurance. The easiest way is to bank small amounts each payday that will add up to the totals when due.

Second: set aside something extra each payday in the savings account until you build up an emergency fund.

Then you know what is left to spend on everyday family needs such as food, clothing, recreation—and what you can afford to set aside for such future family plans as a new home, education, travel.

Because the life insurance companies and their agents have long helped people to plan for family security and happiness, they are conducting this program of information as a public service to the 73,000,000 owners of life insurance and to every American family.

Truman's Views On Rent Control Are Analyzed

After citing rises in living costs in his recent talk on high prices, President Truman said: "Only rent, because it is under rent control, has remained practically stable." That is true on paper. But in practice a great many American families have found that their expense for rent—or housing—has gone up at least as much as other items in the cost of living.

Rent controls influenced many owners of income property to sell for a profit rather than rent for a pittance. Tenants were forced to move. That cost them money, time and energy and increased their cost of living, but it didn't go into the index. Some had to pay higher rent in their new home. That didn't go into the index either.

Others, unable to rent houses or apartments, were forced to buy homes in the boom market. Their down payments, representing not real equities but watered prices, should be added to amortization and upkeep costs to arrive at what they really had to pay to have a home to live in.

There were still other ways in which the item representing rent actually cost tenants more money. Tie-in sales and other devices were often used to extract higher rents from desperate househunters. Many persons encountered marked deterioration in services and upkeep they were supposed to be paying for—inadequate heat, leaky roof, etc.

Rent control may have been necessary. But Mr. Truman was ignoring realities when he implied that having a place to live in is costing Americans no more than it cost them before the war.

U. S. Should Stop Building Up Competitive Government

The immediate hope of any basic understanding between the Soviet Union and the western powers faded with the failure of the Council of Foreign Ministers to reach an agreement on any of the major problems at Moscow. The "two worlds" we have sought to bring together have been kept apart by the Russian attitude, at least for the time being.

Neither Russia nor the United States and Britain is likely to try to improve its present territorial positions by an overt act, so this failure to agree does not mean war. It does mean competition, and most intense competition, between the Russian system and ours. It is for us to prove that ours is the better way. We have what it takes to win this contest provided we do not divide our strength by further appeasement.

But future American philanthropy should stop at the iron curtain. The economic rehabilitation of those countries which will co-operate with us, and among themselves, on a constructive program, will demand all the resources we can spare. Moreover, the advantages of our system will not become apparent so long as our money and our goods are used against us by building up a competing, antagonistic system.

Getting back to the general European settlement, if there cannot be a Big Four settlement, then there must be a Big Three settlement if France will work with us—or a Big Two settlement if she will not, and Britain will. The fighting is over. Reconstruction is needed now, and Russia has blocked that long enough.

The Soviets have been notified by Secretary Marshall that if the Austrian question isn't settled by September he will refer the issue to the United Nations. Pending the Austrian decision, the Senate should defer action on the Italian treaty.

German and Austrian, as well as Japanese economy has been paralyzed by reparations questions. When we agreed to Russia's $100,000,000 claim against Italy, it was on the then reasonable assumption that other issues could be adjusted. But, since nothing has been settled, we should withhold final approval of the claim against Italy in order to retain all our bargaining power in the interest of a general settlement. If a complete accord is out of the question, at least we will not have given the Soviets a vested interest in the Italian economy, which we would be underwriting.

Now that political issues have been shelved, at least for a time, full attention should be given to the long-delayed economic situation. Constructive action there may resolve the political issues, for once our part of the world becomes a going concern the browned-out fields beyond the iron curtain will look less like green pastures.

New York City's mayor is considering levying a city tax on automobiles to help raise the money for a billion-dollar budget. This would leave nothing untaxed in the metropolis except pickets.

Nimrods And Waltonites

The number of Americans interested in hunting and fishing is growing at so rapid a rate that the Federal Fish and Wildlife Service is greatly concerned over the danger to wildlife resources. Albert M. Day, chief of the service, reveals the great increase in the number of hunters since the end of the war.

Recent returns of hunting licenses sold during the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1946, showed a 20 per cent increase over the previous year, he asserted. It reached the highest figure in history of more than 9,850,000, as compared to approximately 8,200,000 in 1945.

Sale of duck stamps increased from less than 1,500,000 in 1942 to nearly 1,800,000 in 1946. Fishing license sales jumped from 99,000,000 in 1943 to more than 8,250,000 in 1946.

Mr. Day remarked that peace is worse than war for wild game and fish, adding that with more gasoline, tires and civilian planes available to penetrate wilderness areas and with the nation's rivers undergoing vast engineering developments, "we must have careful planning and expert untiring efforts if we are to prevent serious damage to wildlife resources."

Urban residents gain much in health through pursuing the arts of hunting and fishing. But if these activities are not surrounded with conservation safeguards, the day will come when these pursuits will go unrewarded to such an extent that they will lose their appeal.

But in the larger sense conservation is the responsibility of all Americans. The last war, with its vast meat shortage, indicated that a protracted and more bitter conflict might find Americans well pleased that conservation of wildlife resources had been practiced.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

MEDICAL CARE OF JAP CASUALTIES

SOMETIMES we must know the bad to appreciate the good. The medical care of our fighting men during the recent hostilities was superb not only in administering to the wounded but in the prevention and treatment of disease. This was done in spite of the magnitude of the war, mechanization, speed, and maneuvers into distant and strange lands.

In some respects it is unfair to compare our service with that of the Japanese but the inadequacy of the enemy along this line contributed to their defeat in certain campaigns. At Guadalcanal, for example one-half of the 42,000 Japanese perished from disease and starvation. Many had malaria, gastroenteritis, and beri-beri. It has been estimated that 80 per cent of the injured succumbed because of poor treatment, lack of supplies, and no facilities for moving casualties.

The story was the same in Burma where the death rate of patients admitted to a Japanese hospital was exceedingly high. In one brigade, 55 per cent of gunshot wound sufferers died. Only 40 per cent of dysentery and 55 per cent of the malaria cases survived. One-fifth of the victims of tuberculosis lost their lives.

Apparently their medical program was poorly organized and not coordinated. The physician had little to say in his command and military decisions were made by the commander.

Measures and the development of new techniques. Besides, they were indifferent toward the ill and wounded. The ailing soldier was forced to treat his own minor disturbances. This explains why tuberculosis was far advanced before being brought to the attention of the authorities.

The lack of sympathy and disinclination in sickness was carried along when the Philippines were occupied. According to one authority, the medical and surgical supplies were among the first items confiscated by the invaders. Since none of these products was manufactured on the islands, a scarcity developed. A tablet of sulfathiazole was said to be worth between 25 and 150 American dollars and a can of ether, $300. A small quantity of drugs was smuggled in by means of a submarine or thru the Red Cross. Hospitals were filled to capacity and ultimately, only emergencies were admitted.

With the shortage of gasoline the ambulance service was cut down to a minimum and only a few doctors were permitted to operate motor vehicles. As a result, instead of making numerous house calls daily, only two or three sick individuals could be seen in their homes. The slower transportation meant also that many died while awaiting attention. In addition, curfew was enforced and no one but Japanese personnel was allowed on the street at night. Consequently the physician could not leave his home even in a crisis.

Sanitation was neglected completely. Garbage was no longer collected and human wastes were scattered around; flies buzzed everywhere. Not only were the surroundings unhygienic but the resistance of the inhabitants dropped thru partial starvation due to rigid food rationing.

THYROID IN CHILD

Mrs. D. writes: Can a 9 year old boy have thyroid trouble? I was told that children's thyroids do not develop until the age of 14.

REPLY

Thyroid disturbances can begin at any age. The child, for example, is born with an undeveloped gland and unless given thyroid extract at an early age, will manifest symptoms of mental retardation. You may be confusing the situation with so-called adolescent goiter. (Copyright: 1947, By The Chicago Tribune)

These days it's no simple matter, being a comedian. The radio network boys insult so easily. You can't even say "twice president" on the air without being cut off.

Of course, in radio we call the process of cutting an actor off the air "fading" and the way things are in radio today they fade you faster than the man with the green eye shade at Los Vegas.

It Says Here

By BOB HORN

These days it's no simple matter, being a comedian. The radio network boys insult so easily. You can't even say "twice president" on the air without being cut off.

Of course, in radio we call the process of cutting an actor off the air "fading" and the way things are in radio today they fade you faster than the man with the green eye shade at Los Vegas.

The epidemic of cutting comedians off the air in the middle of jokes has started a new phenomenon in radio-sliced eggs. And it has brought forth a competitive spirit among comedians.

They fight to see who can be number one on the "cut parade." It's also making it very tough on the listeners. They have to sit by their loud speakers with joke books so they can figure out the end of the gag.

And if this trend continues, the public's listening habits will change. After supper the family will go into the living room, get comfortable, turn on the radio, and settle back for three hours of uninterrupted silence.

I hear the networks are initiating a new theme—song—a special arrangement of "Silent Night." I suppose the big star of the future will be "Whispering" Jack Smith.

Of course, it all started with Fred Allen. He was discussing the way the network was run and he accidentally dropped a syllable which landed on a vice president's toe.

Now you can't even say "Fred Allen." It's going to sound awfully silly to hear Portland come out and call "Oh Mister Bush."

All the comedians are in this together. This week on my show I had my little run-in with antennae axemen.

I gave my small contribution of 12 seconds to the march of unused time.

But I take all this philosophically. After all, silence is golden.

So next Tuesday night tune in and hear the goose that lays the golden egg.

General Mark Clark Expects Pups In Mid-Atlantic; British Expected To Stall On Palestine; Maryland Senator Hanging Onto His Seat By An Eyelash

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, April 27—Gen. Mark Clark, former U. S. Commander in Austria, has been chatting at delays in Moscow. He wants to get back to the USA to celebrate his birthday May 1 with his mother, then go on to his new military post, The Presidio, San Francisco.

When a diplomat friend glibbed him about the long treaty delay which kept him in Moscow, Clark replied: "Not only am I going to miss the boat, but I have bad news from Vienna. You remember my cocker spaniel, Pal? He's nine years old. And remember my wire-haired terrier, Snoopy? She's nine months old. Well, the news is that Snoopy is going to have pups by Pal."

"And though I fail to be midwife to an Austrian treaty in Moscow, I'll be midwife to a litter of mongrel pups on the high seas en route home."

Palestine Veto

In the past 28 years every American President, from Woodrow Wilson to Harry Truman has declared for a Jewish homeland. So have both political parties at almost every national convention.

Yet in those 28 years, either the British Foreign Office or career diplomats in our State Department who ride on the tail of the British kilt, always have managed to block the announced intention of American policy.

Today in New York a special meeting of the United Nations General Assembly convenes to try once again to chart a Palestine policy and carry that policy out. The hopes and fears of 200,000 Jewish refugees are wrapped up in these debates. For them, the war began in 1933 when Hitler first came into power. It did not end when Hitler was killed in a Berlin basement in 1945. They have no homes and the war is still on.

So they will be watching every move of the 55 delegates as they thresh out the problem of Palestine in New York.

Unfortunately, however, most of these delegates will be moving with a stacked deck. The cards were marked even before they set sail for the conference.

The British, chiefly concerned, have made it clear that they reserve the right of veto. If the conference doesn't hand down the right decision, they can refuse to accept it. However, the chances are the decision will be right for the British—another commission of investigation. There have been many such commissions, but never before has No. 10 Downing Street adopted the findings of a Palestinian commission. It is not likely to do so now.

Note—A new commission to investigate Palestine will play right into Russian hands. Knowing that both Jews and Arabs want an immediate solution, the Russians say they are against delay, want the question solved now. Real fact is that if the Russian bluff were called by a decision now the Arabs would decide with the Arabs.

Congressional Shrinkings Violets Freshman Senator Herbert O'Connor of Maryland is still hanging onto his seat by an eyelash, pending his election recount. But meanwhile O'Connor has seen to it that posterity won't lose out on the high spots of his career—even if he later has to leave the Senate.

O'Connor has the longest biography (sometimes called "brag-rag") of any Senator or Representative in the Congressional directory. It runs 53 lines—all written by the Senator himself.

While the independents have a number of grievous sins to answer for, it's still pleasant to hear a voice as truculent as Mr. Cott's come to their defense. The indies, as they are called in New York, must cope with small budgets, which is both their greatest weakness and greatest source of strength. This means they must substitute brains and imagination for the checkbook, and the results are sometimes surprisingly good.

Just what can be accomplished by an independent with courage and initiative was demonstrated by the stations which won Peabody awards this year. Peabody awards, which are called in New York, must cope with small budgets, which is both their greatest weakness and greatest source of strength. This means they must substitute brains and imagination for the checkbook, and the results are sometimes surprisingly good.

Mr. Cott, incidentally, pointed out that one New York independent rated second among listeners in New York City, topping in popularity three of the networks, according to the February issue of "Pulse," a poll. Modestly, Mr. Cott forbore from saying that it was his own station, WNEW. The indies have shown at least in New York, that their disc jockey shows and ball games can outdraw soap opera and audience participation shows, which is certainly a healthy sign.

What the indies badly need is some sort of code similar to that of the networks restricting the amount of advertising per hour. The flagrant use of spot announcements—You can hear as many as seventeen commercials an hour on some of them—is one of the worst evils of radio.

I'd like to express my profound apologies to Miss Jane Cowl for the acid remarks in a recent column about her performance in "The Trojan Women." Miss Cowl was mistakenly identified as the actress who played Hecuba. Actually, Miss Cowl played the role of Andromache. Hecuba was played by Miss Florence Reed. My ears ought to be tested, Miss Cowl.

"Somebody suggested we do a program called 'Nuts to the Networks' and maybe we will," concluded Mr. Cott.

self. This tops by five lines GOP Congressman James Van Zandt of Pennsylvania, who also thinks a lot of himself. It also puts to shame such other shrinking violets as:

Rep. "Silent John" Rankin of Mississippi (35 lines); Senator Raymond Baldwin of Connecticut (39 lines); Rep. William Stigler of Oklahoma (35 lines), and Rep. Adolph Sabath of Illinois, dean of the House (34 lines).

Freshman O'Connor is not as realistic as GOP Senator Bill Langer of North Dakota, who lists among his various attainments that he once went to jail. Langer's biographical sketch in the Congressional Directory states that he is the "only person ever to be arrested in an English-speaking country for filing an affidavit of prejudice against a judge."

O'Connor's self-composed biography contains such self-effacing gems as: "... Youngest State's attorney ever to be elected in Baltimore City. ... Re-elected (State's attorney) by the largest majority ever achieved by a candidate for public office in Baltimore City. ... Elected attorney general of Maryland in 1934, also, by a record-breaking majority."

But the clincher in O'Connor's self-penned opus concerns the various "honors" showered on him while a member of the National Governors' Conference when the Senator modestly recalls that his "patriotic and faithful service, which has been of such benefit to the Governors of all the States and to the Nation" won him a resolution of appreciation from the Governors of various States.

Note—Shortest Senate biography in the Directory is that of California's Sheridan Downey—less than five lines. Seven House members go too far and appear afraid to tell their constituents anything about themselves. Those who confine their biographical sketches to one line, stating their name, party and home town are: Republicans Fred McPherson of Michigan, George MacKinnon of Minnesota and Dewey Short of Missouri, and Democrats Stephen Pace of Georgia, Edward Hart of New Jersey, Joseph Pfeiffer of New York and Andrew Somers of New York.

Mr. Quentin Reynolds East 52nd Street New York, N. Y.

I think you're in trouble. Serious trouble.

Here's how come. About a month ago I was browsing around one of those shops which specialize in Larceny and Old Lace. In a tray of antique whatchamacallits, I came across a little brass mermaid which might have been on one of Eleanor's handbags.

"It's just what I've always wanted," cooed my new girl.

Quentin Reynoldsfrau that evening when I handed it to her. "What is it?"

"About time you called off that buyer's strike," chirped the missus. "Now all I need is a handbag to go with it."

"But you have a handbag," I yelled. "Several of them."

"None of them is right for it," said Eleanor, in the voice Chandler must have used when he threw Du-rocher out of the ball park.

The following evening we went to the movies. Eleanor was toting one of her old pocketbooks. I asked her how come.

"I thought I understood. 'You mean you ordered a hat to match the handbag which you bought to match the mermaid?' I asked."

"Not exactly," said the fire chief's daughter. "That hat is to match the new suit. My old suit clashed with the new shoes."

"Let's begin at the beginning," I said. "I bought you a whatchamacallit. . . ."

"So I bought a bag to put it on," said Eleanor. "Green alligator. Naturally, I had to have shoes to go with it."

Her handbag matched her shoes. Shoes matched gloves. Gloves matched hat. Hat matched blouse. Blouse matched suit. Suit matched her fur piece—and the fur piece matched what it's going to cost to police one of the provinces in Greece.

As we strolled up Fifth Avenue, I got the feeling something was missing. "Say," I said. "What happened to the brass whatchamacallit on your handbag?"

"Oh, that," she said. "I had to take it off. It clashed with these earrings."

I suppose, my dear Quent, you're wondering why I bore you with this melancholy recital. Well, today I even Eleanor for the brass mermaid—though it might make an interesting paperweight for my desk.

Eleanor told me she had given the whatchamacallit to your wife, Ginny.

That's all, brother! BILLY ROSE. Copyright, 1947, by Billy Rose.

THESE DAYS

By George E. Sokolsky

FOOD and rent represent the principal expenditures of most people. Those who own their homes may translate rent into real estate taxes, mortgage costs, repairs, etc. In a word, no matter how one looks at it, board and lodging take a big cut out of anyone's take-home pay. That's where the money goes.

The President of the United States is empowered by Congress to keep rents where they are and he is also empowered to put a floor under farm prices by subsidies, by maintaining a parity for farm prices by law. When Mr. Truman said that the "responsibility for lowering prices rests squarely on industry," he said what could not literally be so since industry cannot decrease the price of food as it cannot increase rents. Of course, there is a realm of profit between the farmer and the housewife's table where price fluctuations are wide, but in that realm high wages and high taxes are a factor.

Farm products have risen 137.3 per cent above 1939-41; foodstuffs 116.6 per cent. The general cost of living index is now 50.4 per cent above 1939-41. The principal and sharpest rise in prices is in the field of farm products—and it is in this field that the President's authority is still effective through parity.

Wages have risen sharply. The average hourly rate for production workers in manufacturing industries is $1.17, or 84 per cent above 1939-41. Weekly earnings for all workers averaged nearly $47 in February, 1947, compared with $34.15 in 1939-41. The policy of the Truman Administration has been to encourage "reasonable" increases in wages, with no definition of "reasonable." Since Mr. Truman has become President, the entire trend has been in an inflationary direction, while all the time he has been saying that it is politics to keep farm prices up and wages up. It is all politics.

The steel companies faced this dilemma: They could have reduced prices without increasing wages. But they would have had a costly strike. So they raised wages without decreasing prices. And they will have no strike. That sets the standard for other industries, which means that there will be a general wage increase with a small decrease in prices, except as buyers' resistance forces down consumers' goods. The decreases will be nothing startling but will look exciting, particularly among some department stores who are using the "lower price" campaign to stimulate buying so that they can rid themselves of inventory. That is sound business and in one manner or another always happens. The rest of the talk about lower prices is politics.

How can prices be decreased notably if the base of consumers' buying, farm products, that is foods and fibers, meat and cotton, vegetables and grains, is kept high? I am not, in this article, advocating the raising of prices or anything like that. I am only pointing out that, except untruth and bad thinking, As I respect the integrity of Mr.

The Queen City Brewers, the

Hyndman (Pa.) Firemen, Westvaco, the Romney (W. Va.) Rockets and Frostburg Veterans of Foreign Wars

open opening games yesterday as the Bi-State Baseball League opened its 36-game schedule in cold, windy and rainy weather.

Charley Doyle's Queen City terrors pried off the lid at Stitches Field by racking up a 3 to 1 decision over the Barton American Legion nine in a game played in the fast time of one hour and 37 minutes, despite several interruptions caused by wind sweeping big clouds of dirt over the playing field.

11 Perish On Bases

Despite the chilly weather, Ival "Speed" Lambert pitched a light ball in the pinches to give the locals a winning start, Barton outdid the Brewers, 7 to 5, and worked Lambert for four passes, but lacked the punch in the pinches and as a result 11 runners perished on the paths. "Speed" struck out nine, Barton's Jim mabner came in the first inning and Lambert doubled and completed the circuit on infield outs by Kirk and Gowans.

The Brewers won the game in the fourth on Mike Walters' walk, Kirk's error on Charley Walters' sacrifice bunt, Barnes' sacrifice, Ray Cook's single which drove in the first run and a wild throw to the infield by McMillan which enabled Walters to cross the platter. Mulvey's double and Walters' single produced the final tally in the sixth.

Jack Kirk, who played second base for Westvaco's champs last year, was his debut as a pitcher and hurled a nice article of ball for Manager Gilbert Warnick's club. Players of both teams turned in several snappy plays afield and the locals executed two double plays, the second one engineered by Bob Doak and Harry Minnick ending the game with the tying run on first base.

Firemen Beat Amvets

Hyndman's Firemen celebrated the opening of the league campaign by defeating the Cumberland Amvets at Hyndman, Pa., by the score of 6-4.

Sammy DeLuca opened the game with a triple and gave the Amvets a 1-0 lead by scoring after Gerdeeman hoisted a fly to the outfield. Cloyd Miller, leadoff man for Hyndman, knocked a 375-foot homer over the fence in left-center, to tie the score and the Firemen added two more tallies in the same frame to take a 3-1 edge.

Trailing 6-1, the Amvets rallied for three runs in the ninth inning. Bob Cook topped the Hyndman attack with two doubles and a single and drove in three runs. Danny Drew belted a triple and two singles for the losers.

Both Leorchec and Paul Clapper yielded 11 hits. The Hyndman pitcher worked eight while the Hyndman pitcher worked six.

Rain interrupted play for 10 minutes in the fifth inning. A crowd of 650 braved windy weather to see the liftdier.

Bill See Whiffs 16

Bill See scattered six hits and struck out 16 as Westvaco's defending champions trounced Mt. Savage at Memorial Park, Westport, by the score of 14-1.

Jimmy Gaughan, Mt. Savage's starting pitcher, walked the first three men to face him on 13 pitches, and Nichols, who succeeded him, was belted for 15 hits in eight innings, including a six-run outburst in the eighth frame when Manager Frank Sullivan's outfit coupled five hits with an error, stolen base and a base on balls.

Harry Salada, who played with Lonaconing last season, paced the Westvaco hitters with four hits—two doubles and two singles—and drove in three runs. "Bud" Mosser connected for a triple and double.

Elmer Lashley accounted for three of Mt. Savage's six blows. See's 16 strikeouts included a run of seven straight. Westvaco played errorless ball.

Rockets Surprise Coney

Scoring four runs in the first inning, the Romney Rockets launched their league campaign with a 5 to 2 triumph over the Lonaconing Republican Club terrors at Lonaconing.

Don Woodson went the route for Romney limiting the home team to seven hits and firing the third strike past nine batters. He yielded runs in the first and third frames.

Blaine Turner led the Rockets' 10-hit offensive with a double, the lone extra base hit of the game, and two singles.

The Lonaconing City Band under the leadership of Henry Connors played and Judge William Abbott of the Orphans' Court tossed out the first ball.

Frostburg Beats Lauber

Manager Dick Strout's Frostburg V.F.W. aggregation made its Bi-State debut with a 3 to 1 victory over the Midland Red Sox in a game called in the seventh inning on account of combination of rain, wind and cold weather.

Midland scored its only run in the opening stanza when Steinburg singled and Jimmy Murray pounded out a triple.

Frostburg sowed up the game by

Oh! Johnny

Dear Johnny:
 We are counting the days until you arrive.
 Don't forget to bring your violin, we know everyone will want to hear you and the boys.
 We talked to a few of our friends today and they all think you are swell, the same as we do.
 So please don't be late, we are anxious to see you.
 We'll be waiting,
 YOUR FRIENDS.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, April 27—There's been a lot of talk that 20th Century-Fox spent a lot of money when they bought "Chicken Every Sunday," the play by Rosemary Taylor, and then postponed it. Well, it's not true. "Chicken" has not been shelved. It goes into production in May with George Seaton directing and William Perling producing, and here is the cast: Jeanne Crain, Dan Dailey and Anne Baxter.

Speaking of Anne, I hope that one of these days she changes her hair and her clothes, and dresses becoming her youthful years. As it is now, she dresses much too old. An Academy award winner is always being scrutinized by the public.

This will be Jeanne's first picture since the birth of her baby. As for Dan Dailey, since "Mother Wore Tights," Darryl Zanuck has him high on the favored list.

Joe E. Brown's beloved funny face is coming back to us in the movies this summer in "Tender Years," an Edward G. Robinson movie.

Joe E., who has been packing them in the theaters in Chicago in "Harvey" for 10 months, put his signature on the contract in the Windy City. He'll play a Protestant minister.

Abe Finkel, who wrote "Sergeant York," adapted this story and Richard Sale and Mary Anita. Loos are working on the screenplay.

Joe E. will rate a 20th Century release on this, his first picture in several years because before he went on the stage, he devoted all of his time to entertaining troops all over the world.

I am told that Mrs. Herbert Yates has quietly sold some of her shares of Republic stock. I must print this as a rumor, because I have no verification.

It is said that the Harry Goetz and the Brulov interests bought the stock from Mrs. Yates—and, oh, was there trouble! She forgot to tell Papa Yates.

Her anger at her husband was over some of the pictures he made of which she didn't approve.

The photographs of Laraine Day taken in New York and published in the New York papers tore my heart. She looked so sad and so beaten. A girl can take just so much punishment and no more.

She came very close to developing pneumonia as a result of nervous exhaustion. She returns next week to make the final scenes for "Tycoon," but after that her doctors have ordered a complete rest.

With all the unhappiness around her and the trouble that has come to Leo Durocher, I don't know where she will get the rest prescribed.

Chatter in Hollywood: Gypsy

Rose Lee, who has been living in a trailer with her son in Malibu, put on an impromptu dance in front of the Seacomber the other eve. Watching her was Bob Stack, a girl friend, Robert Preston and several other people. It all happened in the parking lot and Gypsy didn't know she had an audience. She's going on a fishing trip with her young son.

Her trailer is so big she couldn't bring it into Malibu proper, but had to park it on the outskirts.

First I had heard that Gypsy was in town. Wonder why she doesn't call some of her old friends?

I asked Paul Small just before he played east, if he had sold the rights to Damon Runyon's life. He said a deal was all but closed. I gather from what Paul said that one of the four men interested, David Selznick is the one most likely to succeed in buying it.

The memory of Damon Runyon is still so strong in New York that you almost expect to see him walk into the Stork Club with Walter Winchell. On the wall of the Stork Club is the May cover of Cosmopolitan magazine, which announces his last story, based on his friend, Sherman Billingsley. Damon's life story should make a great movie.

Here and There: Eddie Cantor returns to the stage for the first time since he appeared on Broadway in "Banjo Eyes." This time he'll be the only professional in a show at Fresno State University put on by the varsity boys.

Congratulations to George Aney. After 18 years as Mike Curtiz' film cutter, he's been made general manager of Curtiz Productions, Inc. very nice that such long and loyal service has been so well rewarded.

Ruth Warwick goes to Ireland in October to star in a film version of Sean O'Casey's play "Shadow of a Gunman." It will be made at the J. Arthur Rank studio outside of Dublin.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Anita Colby arrives in New York in time for a big party Molly and Charlie Berns are giving her tomorrow. "Is whispered that Anita will surprise everybody a little later by announcing her engagement to an eastern gent.

A cute dinner for some was Kay Kyser and Pat O'Brien each with his respective mothers, age 84 years. Saw Pat on my first night horse having dinner with Spencer Tracy and Jimmy Cagney. A bunch of two-listed Irishmen if ever I saw em.

N. Peter Rathvon celebrated his birthday tonight and Mrs. Rathvon gave him a surprise birthday party.

William Orr joins Warners as an executive of the talent department. Well, Bill ought to be able to pick 'em, he used to be an actor himself. He's married to Mrs. Jack Warner's daughter.

Nan Hopkins, in "Lady Winderemere's Fan," is marrying Roland Culver, English actor. The marriage takes place in England when the lady returns to his native land.

I'd hate to bet any sizeable amount that Peggy Ann Garner, 15 years old, will not go out on a single date for next two years. That's what I was told she promised her mother. Not that she isn't always chaperoned but Peggy Ann is a very sweet attractive girl and she loves a good time.

Art Linkletter, emcee of the "People Are Funny" show, becomes an American citizen on May 9. Art was born in Moose Jaw, Canada.

When the papers called Red Skelton, after he had been made honorary vice-president of NBO, he said, "It's beneath the dignity of my new office to comment. Any statement must come from the president of the company." Oh, that Skelton.

Ingrid Bergman, who's been very homesick, has already started to

SUSIE Q. SMITH

By Linda and Jerry Walter

"Love is like a cafeteria... you pick out something attractive and pay later!"

Joe E. Brown's beloved funny face is coming back to us in the movies this summer in "Pender Years," an Edward Alpert movie.

Joe E. who has been packing them in the theaters in Chicago for "Harvey" for 10 months, put his signature on the contract in a Protestant minister's office.

Abe Finkel, who wrote "Sergeant York," adapted this story and Richard Sale and Mary Anita Loos are working on the screenplay.

Joe E. will rate a 20th Century release on this, his first picture in several years because before he went on the stage, he devoted all of his time to entertaining troops all over the world.

I am told that Mrs. Herbert Yates has quietly sold some of her shares of Republic stock. I must print this as a rumor, because I have no verification.

"I said that the Harry Goetz and the Brulout interests bought the stock from Mrs. Yates—and, oh, was there trouble! She forgot to tell Paul Yates."

Her anger at her husband was over some of the pictures he made of which she didn't approve.

The photographs of Laraine Day taken in New York and published in the New York papers tore my heart. She looked so sad and so beaten. A girl can take just so much punishment and no more.

She came very close to developing pneumonia as a result of nervous exhaustion. She returns next week to make the final scenes for "Tycoon," but after that her doctors have ordered a complete rest.

With all the unhappiness around her and the trouble that has come to Leo Durocher, I don't know where she will get the rest prescribed.

Chatter in Hollywood: Gypsy

Anita Colby

She changes her hair and her clothes, and dresses becoming her youthful years. As it is now, she dresses much too old. An Academy award winner is always being scrutinized by the public.

This will be Jeanne's first picture since the birth of her baby. As for Dan Dailey, since "Mother Wore Tights," Darryl Zanuck has him high on the favored list.

Here and There: Eddie Cantor returns to the stage for the first time since he appeared on Broadway in "Banjo Eyes." This time he'll be the only professional in a show at Fresno State University put on by the varsity boys.

Congratulations to George Amey. After 18 years as Mike Curtiz' film director, he's been made general manager of Curtiz Productions, Inc. Very nice that such long and loyal service has been so well rewarded.

Ruth Warrick goes to Ireland in October to star in a film version of Sean O'Casey's play "Shadow of a Gunman." It will be made at the J. Arthur Rank studio outside of Dublin.</

Phone Clerical Workers Vote To Return To Jobs

Eyerman Refuses Picketing Permits

Cumberland members of the striking Maryland Federation of Telephone Clerical Workers voted last night to return to their jobs today after Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman refused to grant them permits to picket local buildings of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

The decision of the clerical workers thus apparently ended the possibility that telephone service here would be interrupted again today after two days of normal service.

A spokesman for the group said Chief Eyerman informed her that a telegram from Miss Helen M. Smith, state president of the union, was not sufficient basis for him to issue picketing permits.

Intended To Picket
"We fully intended to picket today," this spokesman said, "but when Chief Eyerman would not give us permits we have no alternative but to return to work."

Normal telephone service resumed late Friday night when operators, who had been honoring picket lines, returned to their jobs after an agreement was reached between the Maryland Federation of Telephone Workers and the C. and P. Company and pickets were withdrawn.

However, the clerical workers' union has not yet reached an agreement and members were informed Friday that they were to continue on strike and to picket the building to keep operators and plant personnel from reporting to work.

Last night one local member of the union said she received a telegram from Miss Smith stating: "This authorizes you and other girls in connection with the NFWA strike; secure necessary permits and throw picket around the building there to keep out the plant and traffic people."

Chief Eyerman was contacted promptly and informed of the telegram, but he refused to issue the permits on the strength of the wire, the union spokesman said.

No Local Representative
She added that the Chief told her she would have to present a letter from the local representative of the union before the permits could be issued. However, the union has no official local representative and had none for more than a year.

With only six members, the small group met last night and voted to return to work as their "only alternative."

"We had nothing else to do since we couldn't get permits," their spokesman said, "but we don't want to think we're scabs. We felt, too, that since members of our union in other sections of the state had returned to work that we couldn't accomplish much."

Miss Smith was informed that the permits had been denied and also of the decision to go back to work and told local members: "Let your conscience be your guide."

Representatives of the Maryland Federation of Telephone Traffic Union reported last night that their members would have observed picket lines if they had been set up by the clerical workers.

However, they expressed the belief that the small number of clerical workers would have been undertaking an impossible job if they attempted to set up pickets on a 24-hour basis as they were.

Picketing would have been required on a 24-hour basis to be successful, they said, and pickets would have had to be posted in front of the exchange building on Union Street, in the rear of the same building and at the garage at Frederick and Linden Streets.

No Outside Help
Members of the Clerical workers union said they were advised by Miss Smith, that pickets could not be sent to help here from other sections of the state.

George Williams, Western Maryland strike captain from the MFTW, said members of his union will return to work today inasmuch as there will be no picket lines.

He said local members feel that officers who took part in negotiations feel their officers did "a very good job in view of the circumstances. Union members in other locales feel down."

Williams said Robert O. Siemmer, state strike director, informed him that officers and union members in Baltimore "are very proud of Cumberland as the only area the state where there was no scabbing."

Miss Smith, the clerical workers president, was quoted as saying "2,000 jelly fish in Maryland sold 200,000 other phone workers down the river," but the local clerical workers spokesman said last night that Miss Smith informed her that remarks were not directed to Cumberland.

"We're very proud of Cumberland," Miss Smith was quoted as saying. Operators, who have not been on strike but who observed picket lines, shed a 30-day strike notice more than a week ago.

Young Pa. Couple
Postpone Wedding
A young Greensburg, Pa., couple who came here Wednesday to obtain a marriage permit, but was refused after Clerk of Court Robert Jackson said "the girl told a lie about her age." Saturday agreed to a "cooling off" plea made by the girl's father.

Court attaches said the girl, Miss Evelyn Lucille Watson, 18, "created a scene" in the Court House Saturday morning when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Watson, appeared to oppose the issuance of the license.

The couple, accompanied by Mrs. S. C. Carrs, mother of the would-be bridegroom, Richard Earl Carrs, 21, returned to Greensburg after they agreed to wait until June 2 and be married at the home of Miss Watson's parents.

The conflict started Friday when Clerk Jackson learned that Miss Watson, who told him she was 21, was only 18. He refused to issue the license. Watson, manager of the West Virginia Gulf Oil Corporation, also wired asking that the license not be issued.

Viewpoints On The Ray Report

What is your opinion on Dr. Joseph M. Ray's report on the municipal government which was submitted to the Mayor and City Council April 12?

ASSOCIATE JUDGE GEORGE HENDERSON, former mayor of the City of Cumberland: "I have studied the extracts from Dr. Ray's report which were printed in The Cumberland News about two weeks ago. I agree wholeheartedly with his recommendation for a council manager form of city government. His other recommendations I also agree with except that I believe the money spent on a 'popular report of the city's achievements' would probably be wasted, because few people would take time to read it. The material given to the newspapers from time to time as current information would be read by more people. We should remember that no matter what form of government is adopted it will be only as good as those we choose to administer it."

JAMES W. BISHOP, president of the Taxpayers Association of Allegany County: "I consider the report a very fine thing. In a general way the adoption of the report would correct a number of things now considered evils under the commission form of city government. Particularly the part pertaining to the city manager, I'd say it would be a good thing for the city if the report were adopted in its entirety."

THOMAS F. CONLON, former mayor of Cumberland: "I favor Dr. Ray's suggestion of a council manager and a city clerk who would be required to keep a perpetual inventory of the purchases and disbursements made as a city manager. I tried to have both installed during my first term as mayor. I believe they would have cut out expenses."

I disagree, however, with Dr. Ray's report on his method of collecting taxes. I believe the present system to be very efficient, and I believe a change of collections will bear out my opinion. There should be more money paid forward in advance by taxpayers and mayor so they can attend to the municipal duties by rendering a full day's work. In short, there should be more business in the city government."

CHARLES E. CUBBAGE, 629 Lincoln Street, a draftsman employed by Small-Pay Engineering Company: "Something must be done if Cumberland is to move forward. I agree with Dr. Ray's report and believe it contains very sound recommendations and logical suggestions which should be put into action here. It hasn't been very encouraging to veterans to come back home and find that Cumberland has been standing still while Hagerstown and other cities have grown and moved ahead. I believe our system of government is obsolete and that much of the fault lies in the leadership and type of thinking we are guided by. It is time for change and progress or we shall move backward. There is a vast difference between managing a gasoline station and managing a corporation worth several million dollars. Salaries are too low and city officials should be paid enough to attract able, experienced business men. I like Dr. Ray's recommendation and hope Cumberland will adopt it. I see it as a way to build and create a better, far more progressive city through better government."

FOUR ALARM FIRE—Members of four fire companies yesterday fought an hour-long battle to bring under control a blaze which destroyed one three-story frame building and damaged two others on Main and Armstrong Streets, Keyser, W. Va. A group of firemen (above) are standing beneath a stream of water being played into a second story window of the Prichard Corporation store which was completely gutted. Sparks from the fire threatened to ignite gasoline tanks of a nearby service station, which firemen said would have caused disaster in the entire business district.

2 Lumbermen Held In Alleged Affair With Minor Girls

Police Says 4 Spent
Night In Shanty

Two Kingwood, W. Va., lumbermen were being held in Allegany County Jail last night along with two juvenile girls, whom they are accused of spending Friday night with in a "shanty" near the Pennsylvania State Line above Barre, Md., State Police said.

Identified as Harry Spahr, 30, and James Gibson, 23, Trooper Harry Holsinger said the pair was arrested after James Martin, Barre, Md., complained to State Police that his daughter, Dorothy Martin, 13, ran away from home and was living with a man above Barre, Md.

Police said the other girl, Laura Times, also 13, Sunnyside, near Mt. Savage, admitted that she had spent the night in a shanty which the two men constructed while they were cutting timber and running a sawmill in the vicinity.

Trooper Holsinger said he went to the shanty about noon after receiving the complaint and found the two girls inside with the door locked. Gibson was operating the saw mill about 100 feet from the shanty, the trooper said, and was taken into custody immediately.

Spahr was arrested at a Cumberland restaurant later in the afternoon by Holsinger and Detective Edward Lilya of the city police, after the girls had given a description of him and his name, the trooper explained.

Both men at first denied they had spent the night with the girls. Holsinger stated, but later admitted having relations with one of the girls and the Martin girl also told police that she had had relations with the men, the trooper said.

Gibson and Spahr said they had been working in the vicinity recently as lumbermen, and declared the girls came to the shanty Friday and spent the night there, Trooper Holsinger said they told him.

Refuse To Open Door
The girls, both of whom only recently passed their 13th birthdays, gave no further information about the affair, after they admitted spending the night in the shanty, the trooper asserted, adding that they refused to open the door to the shanty until they were informed that a State Policeman was outside.

The quartet will be taken to the office of the State's Attorney this morning for further questioning and the men will be given a preliminary hearing in Trial Magistrate court, the girls will probably be taken to Juvenile Court, he added.

Meek Arrested
For Attacking Zirk
A man identified as Lloyd Meek, Gay Street, was at large on $20 bond last night after being arrested on charges of disorderly conduct as the result of an alleged assault committed on Garrett Zirk Romney, W. Va., on North Centre Street Saturday night, police said.

Zirk was treated in Allegany Hospital for multiple facial lacerations and then lodged in City Jail for investigation after the fracas, police said. They explained that the alleged assailant dragged Zirk from his automobile on Centre Street near Park Street, and beat him.

Two women companions, who were passengers in Zirk's machine, were held for investigation but were later released. Zirk was still being held in City Jail last night and police said Meek will be given a hearing this morning in Police Court.

John Itoni Held
A man identified as John Itoni, 242 Columbia Street, was being held in City Jail last night for Maryland State Police after being arrested at 9:30 p. m. by Troopers William Baker and Theodore Snyder. Police said Itoni was operating on a revoked operator's permit and added it is the third time he has been arrested on the charge. He will be given a hearing this morning.

Jaycee leaders announced they have asked the American Legion for permission to pile the cans at one end of the Community Ball Park and city officials have promised that the cans will be removed immediately once the collection is completed.

Young people who bring cans to the designated place at 8 a. m. must have the paper removed from the cans and must have them crushed and in a compact package.

Mrs. Fisher has announced that the lucky 1200 will witness a special showing of the "Silver Stallion," a first run picture. The show will be at 9 a. m. and there will be special short subjects shown including some cartoon features.

Paper Collection
Cumberland's monthly paper collection will start tomorrow with pickups scheduled for LaVale, Potomac Park, Bowling Green, Bedford Road from Nave's Crossroads to State Line and Baltimore Pike to Miller's Service Station.

On Tuesday West Side will be covered, while on Wednesday collections will be made east of Williams Creek and north of Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue.

West, prominent Hagerstown business man, indicted in Washington, County on a charge of assault with intent to rape, is scheduled to begin Friday morning. One Building Guttled Two Damaged By Keyser Fire

Avirett Urges Quick Action On Smoke Ordinance

Radio Forum Opens
Clean-up Campaign

Termining the proposed smoke control ordinance a "constructive step forward," James Alfred Avirett, speaking on yesterday afternoon's "Wake Up Cumberland" radio forum program over Station WTBO, said the measure should be passed by the Mayor and Council at once.

In answer to a question telephoned in by a listener, who asked why no action had been taken as yet on the ordinance, Avirett replied, "Forty thousand people in Cumberland want to know that."

The program launched the "Clean-up Week" campaign of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce, with President David Kauffman as moderator.

Avirett, who is chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, pointed out that the fundamental need in such a campaign is to get to the source of dirt and smoke, which in Cumberland's case includes railroads, the Potomac Edison Company's plant, small industries and homes.

Urges Smoke Control
"A permanent way to rid the city of dirt is the enforcement of a smoke control ordinance," he declared. The recent newspaper poll showed overwhelming sentiment in favor of smoke control, and the people are entitled to it."

Stating that fire officials are asking householders to co-operate with the clean-up campaign, Charles C. McKearn, city fire inspector, recommended the following measures:

Clear attics, cellars, closets and garages of the winter's accumulation of trash and papers; co-operate with the wastepaper drive to be held this week; avoid smoking in bed or near combustible materials; keep matches away from small children; use a flashlight instead of matches in dark closets or storage space; clean up thoroughly after repair work or painting to avoid fire danger from accumulations of paint rags, oil rags and saturated sawdust and shavings.

McKearn also advised a check of electrical equipment for frayed cords, and avoiding spring cleaning with gasoline, which vaporizes quickly and will explode when ignited by the smallest spark. He said the Fire Department answered more calls in January and February of this year than in any two-month period of its 41 years of service.

Outlines Aims
Brax Dodson, co-chairman of the clean-up campaign, outlined its purposes. He pointed out that today has been designated "Clean-up Day," when local residents are asked to inspect their attics and cellars, assemble useless articles and get them ready for disposal. All refuse should be collected as compactly as possible and placed at the curb on regular garbage pick-up nights.

Dodson said that tomorrow is "fire prevention day," and Wednesday is "paint-up, decorate, lawn and garden day." Thursday is "vacant lot and public health day," Friday is "tidy Friday," a day for evaluation of the campaign's results; and Saturday is "inspection day," when city authorities, civic leaders and neighbors will evaluate your efforts toward this drive.

Speaking on health aspects of the Jaycees' campaign, Dr. Leland Ransom, local physician, pointed out that dirty rooms, open garbage dumps, damp, littered places and trash heaps are ideal breeding places for germs.

With regard to smoke, he said that its haze deflects the ultraviolet rays of the sun, which are potent germ killers, pointing out that many medical men believe fires may be instrumental in the development of lung cancer.

Discussing home beautification in connection with the campaign, Mrs. Harry Butler, who represented the Junior Women's Civic Club, pointed out that cleanliness costs little but pays generous dividends in better health and better living conditions.

She said that fresh paint and wallpaper can make a home much more attractive and livable, adding that the sight of one neat, well-cared for home in a block will encourage neighbors to keep their own homes the same way.

Blaze Threatens All Of Business District

A raging fire held an hour-long threat over the Keyser, W. Va., business district yesterday as it gutted one three-story frame building and damaged two others on Main and Armstrong Streets before four fire companies brought it under control at 6:15 p. m.

Firemen said the blaze was not discovered until it had burned through the west wall of the building occupied by the Prichard Corporation, wholesale and retail dealer in hardware and groceries.

Merchandise Complete Loss
The merchandise of the Prichard Corporation was a complete loss, while two two-story buildings on either side were badly damaged, firemen said. One of the buildings, where Patrick Rigglesman operated a restaurant, was burned on the side nearest the Prichard building and much of the furnishings on both the first and second floors were damaged by smoke and water, firemen explained.

On the other side of the Prichard store, damage to the first floor of a building where the Firestone Accessories Stores, operated by Paul Goldworthy, Cumberland, is located, was estimated at $6,000.

Members of the Keyser Fire Company, first on the scene, said flames were bursting from the roof of the Prichard Building when they arrived and heavy black smoke was rolling from the roof of the Rigglesman Restaurant.

An Esso Service Station, located on the opposite corner of Main and Armstrong Streets from the Prichard Building, was under constant threat of being touched off by flying sparks until the flames were brought under control, firemen asserted.

The building occupied by the Prichard store and the one occupied by Rigglesman's restaurant were owned by heirs of the Ellis State estate and were not insured, firemen said.

H. G. Shores, Keyser attorney, who has been handling the estate, declared that a price of $20,000 was recently refused for the building housing the Prichard Corporation. Firemen said the entire three-story building was gutted, but the walls were covered with tin remaining standing.

Floors and the walls nearest the Prichard Store were badly burned, but Rigglesman had time to move some of the fixtures from his restaurant, firemen stated. Goldworthy said his Firestone Store was worthily said his Firestone Store was badly damaged, but the walls were covered with tin remaining standing.

The Prichard Building collapsed shortly after firemen arrived, and sent sparks flying through the air adding stress to the threat to the service station, firemen asserted.

Fire Companies from Westernport, Piedmont and McCoole arrived within an hour after the blaze started. The Keyser company and the Bloomington company alerted members to stand by in case they were needed.

Receive Call At 5:15 P. M.
Keyser firemen said they received the alarm about 5:15 p. m. after several Sunday strollers who noticed the blaze, leaping from the roofs called them. Traffic on both Armstrong and Main Streets was blocked and vehicles were rerouted through other sections of the town. A crowd of several hundred persons gathered to watch the burning building, and Keyser police roped off a large area as a safety measure.

The Prichard Corporation operated a grocery store on the first floor and a hardware department on the second floor, using the third as a storeroom, firemen asserted. A small section of the front part of the building escaped damage by the flames, but water and smoke ruined the merchandise, witnesses reported.

While the four fire companies brought the blaze under control about an hour after it was reported, they continued to play several streams of water on the three burning buildings for nearly two hours before 10 p. m. Several rumors spread that the fire had broken out anew and crowds reformed.

Rigglesman told firemen that while he is closed on Sunday, he had been to his restaurant yesterday about an hour before the fire started and saw no signs of a fire at that time. Other stores had been closed since Saturday night, firemen said.

Cause Unknown
Neither firemen nor spectators who first noticed the fire could say in which building the blaze had originated, nor could they give any cause for the start of the fire.

Witnesses who said they noticed the fire before the Keyser company arrived, declared the blaze and smoke began pouring from all three buildings at about the same time.
